Million dollar makeover begins at Hatchery Park

A million dollar makeover is currently under way at Johnson Creek at Fish Hatchery Park in Northville. The project will transform the park, improving both fish habitat and visitor experience, as well as bolstering water quality within the Rouge River watershed, township officials said.

Construction crews from Anglin Civil, LLC, of Livonia, recently began tearing out the overgrowth that will expose the now-hidden Johnson Creek and allow easier access to the crumbling wall that runs the length of the creek. Workers will replace the wall with a natural earth berm and dredge Fish Hatchery Pond, two key steps to improve fish passage between the pond and creek and to create a more hospitable fish and wildlife habitat, they added.

The view will change, too, said Mark Gasche, Northville Parks and Recreation director. Park visitors will notice new greenery as the full length of the 1,050 foot riverbank will be exposed as the project advances. The creek bank will have tiered levels populated by more than 250 native trees and 300 native shrubs. Next spring, visitors will be allowed to go to the edge of the creek, which was previously impossible.

"The esthetic will change and visitors will notice a better looking riverbank," Gasche said.

The park has historical significance as one of the largest fish hatcheries in the United States and is one of only three cold-water creeks in southeast Michigan that support a trout population. The only public access point to Johnson Creek is Fish Hatchery Park.

The project is funded by a $963,090 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and administered by the Alliance of Rouge Communities (ARC), a group of local municipalities, counties and other institutions, which work to improve water quality of the Rouge River watershed. The Rouge River feeds into the Detroit River, which supplies area drinking water.

The ARC chose this project because the fish and wildlife habitat associated with Johnson Creek have been lost and impacted by several factors, including sediment-laden stormwater runoff from the gravel parking lot, officials said. Not only have the sediment deposits in the pond changed the depth, where it is less than 18 inches deep, but it also blocks the fish passage channel between the pond and the creek, where it settles, impacting the habitat in the creek as well, Gasche explained. "The project will repair this blockage and install a bioswale, a shallow depression that stunts runoff and removes debris and pollution," he added.

The crew also plans to remove 2,000 cubic yards of sediment in the pond to create deeper water for fish.

"Johnson Creek is an irreplaceable natural resource and amenity for our community," said Northville Township Supervisor Robert Nix. "This County commissioners oppose new Census deadline

Members of the Wayne County commission have unanimously opposed the effort that moved the response date for the 2020 U.S. Census from Oct. 31 to Sept. 30.

At the same time, commissioners strongly urged those who haven't yet responded to make sure they are included in the count this year.

"With all that is going on in the world and in our country we need to keep things the way they are," Chairman Alisha Bell said. "Michigan is doing well in terms of its census response but some Wayne County communities are not. It is so important to have a fair and accurate count.

"The census determines how much revenue our county will receive from the federal government for the next decade."

The resolution notes that the census is a two-step process and that shortening the second step, collecting data door-to-door will hurt those who depend on the census the most.

Revenue for Medicare, Head Start and the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), among other programs, depends on the Census.

"Many of these households are the most neglected part of our citizenry. They include people of color, immigrants, and persons with low income. These are the very people who need the full benefits of an accurate Census," the resolution states.

The census will also determine how Congressional, state and county districts will be apportioned for the next 10 years.

Officials from the U.S. Census Bureau announced earlier this month that all counting efforts for this year will end Sept. 30, one month sooner than had previously been announced.

The census was to have been completed by July 31, but that date was moved to Oct. 31 due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Civil rights organizations and county officials from several states have filed a lawsuit to block the change.

The resolution is being sent to the Michigan Congressional delegation, Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi and Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, among other elected officials.

Wayne County Community College OKs virtual classes

Students at the Ted Scott Campus of Wayne County Community College District (WCCCD) in Belleville will be attending classes virtually this fall.

Like most of the local school districts in the area, the college will also begin classes virtually in an effort to protect students and faculty from the effects of the COVID-10 pandemic.

In a letter to students last week, Chancellor Curtis Ivery said that the classes would be moved to "alternative virtual modalities."

Ivery said there will be "a very small number" of exceptions for health science and career education courses that require hands-on learning experiences.

The decision became effective Monday, Aug. 24 and is based on Gov. Gretchen Whitmer's executive orders and guidance from the CDC, MIOSHA, and other governmental agencies, Ivery said in a letter to students and families.

"The number of COVID-19 cases in Detroit and Wayne Country region show no signs of abating and there is uncertainty as to whether there will be a spike in infections during he fall. Even though we have established rigorous protocols and are confident that WCCCD is a safe place to work and study, we have chosen to eliminate even the limited risk involved in offering face-to-face instruction during the Fall 2020 semester."

> The number of COVID-19 cases in Detroit and Wayne Country region show no signs of abating.

Online courses scheduled for the Fall 2020 semester will be provided as planned and are not impacted by this decision, according to a statement from the college.

"By making this decision now, before the fall semester begins, we are exercising the utmost caution to protect the physical and emotional health and safety of our students and employees. Our strong desire to provide our students with the benefits of on-campus instruction and student support services is simply outweighed by the urgency of doing all we can to mitigate the spread of COVID-19," Ivery said

Ivery acknowledged the disruption the transition to virtual classes might cause in the lives of students, faculty and staff members but said making the decision early might reduce the disruption caused if the transition had to be made mid-semester.

He added that faculty members and the Student Services Division members would meet to provide students with support in making the transition.

"The WCCCD faculty and staff have demonstrated great resilience and agility as the COVID-19 pandemic has evolved during the past several months, and these characteristics are being called upon once again, " Ivery said. "We are deeply appreciative of your continued devotion to our students and the mission of WCCCD."

Mary L. Menard

The family of Mary L Menard has asked her many friends and acquaintances to raise a glass of Chardonnay and celebrate her life with a toast to her memory.

Mrs. Menard, 72, died peacefully Aug. 19, surrounded by her family.

She arrived in the world on Dec. 20, 1947, part of a proud Chicago brood of six children. Mrs. Menard originally aspired to a life in the religious community, but that changed when she met the love of her life, Walter. The couple was married in 1967 and started their family, being blessed with two daughters.

In the early 70s, the couple moved their family to Southeast Michigan where they began their custom home construction business, now known as Menard Builders.

With the business still flourishing after more than 40 years, and their daughters with families of their own, Mrs. Menard spent the past decade as the ultimate snowbird, packing for Florida upon seeing the first leaf of autumn fall from the trees and leaving before the first snowflake settled. She would always return in the spring, however, to spend time with her grandsons, whom she loved dearly.

She was devoted to her Jazzercise classes where she attended more than 3,200 sessions and enjoyed many "Happy Hours" with all her friends.

A funeral mass took place on Tuesday at Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church in Plymouth. Memorials may be made to Friends of the Penn, 760 Penniman Ave., Plymouth, Ml 48170.

Arrangements were entrusted to the Vermeulen-Sajewski Funeral Home in Plymouth.

Canton offering multiple outdoor fitness programs

Canton Leisure Services is now offering an outdoor programming lineup which includes an assortment of fitness classes. Participants can choose from: Yoga; Cardio & Core; Zumba; Plyometric Sculpt; Total Body; Circuit Training; Bootcamp; Cycle, and several others, organizers said.

Each 55-minute class takes place at either the Heritage Park Amphitheater, located behind the Summit on the Park at 46000 Summit Parkway or the Summit on the Park Community Court, located in the Summit west parking lot, weather permitting.

"We are thrilled to be able to provide some of our most popular fitness classes in an outdoor environment," said Health and Wellness Specialist Jennifer Franz. "All of these programs have been developed to allow for safe physical distancing, with smaller class sizes, and other important safety protocols which include equipment sanitizing procedures, and more."

Fees are just $5 for Canton residents and $7 for non-residents. No onsite registration will be available. Pre-registration is only available online at www.cantonfun.org/relaunch.

> All of these programs have been developed to allow for safe physical distancing, with smaller class sizes, and other important safety protocols...

Registration for each class will open two weeks before and will close 24 hours prior to the class. These classes are not included in Summit on the Park memberships, which are currently frozen.

Classes have limited space and are reserved on a first-come, first-served basis. Participants are asked to please arrive 15-minutes before class for check-in. Late arrivals will not be permitted into class and will not be issued refunds.

Masks or face coverings must be worn during check-in, when exiting class, at any time inside the Summit on the Park when utilizing the indoor restrooms, and whenever a 6-foot distance cannot be maintained. Masks may be taken off during class time. Refusal to wear a mask during specified times will result in exclusion from participation in the class.

Yoga mats are also available for purchase online at www.cantonfun.org/relaunch. Mats will not be provided in class. Strength equipment will be provided, however, participants are encouraged to bring their own.

For additional information about these outdoor fitness classes, visit www.canton-mi.org/relaunch, email leisure@canton-mi.org, or call (734) 394-5360.

New traffic signal installed, work on township roads continues

Crews have been at work this week on road repairs and traffic controls in Canton Township.

A new traffic light has been installed at Beck Road and Michigan Avenue while work on Sheldon Road between Warren and Ford roads is under way.

The Sheldon Road repair is described by Wayne County Road Commission engineers as a 2-inch mill and fill on the area of the heavily-traveling north-south road. The work was expected to be complete and the road open to traffic this week.

Repairs are also under way along Haggerty Road between Ford and Warren roads where traffic lanes have been reduced during the resurfacing project. Construction work is also continuing on Cherry Hill and Ridge roads and the intersection of Canton Center and Warren road will be under construction throughout the next two months.

The new traffic signal at Beck and Michigan Avenue is an effort to decrease the nearly 70 collisions that took place at the heavily-traveled intersection last year. Nine of the reported vehicle accidents resulted in injuries, according to statistics from the Canton Township Police Department.

Officials said that speeding drivers are an ongoing issue at the intersection which previously had only stop signs to slow traffic. The Michigan Department of Transportation authorized a study of the intersection to determine the necessity of a new traffic signal in the area.

NORTHVILLE

What's in a name?

Township chooses winning name for new park

Northville Township has chosen a winning entry in the Name the Park contest. Legacy Park of Northville was the unanimous choice of members of the board of trustees who approved the new name during their virtual meeting earlier this month.

The winning entry was submitted by two Northville Township residents, Sharon Hayden and Pam Norcutt, who will share the $200 prize for the winning entry.

Northville Township Clerk Marjorie Banner received more than 100 entries for the contest that began June 20.

"Many came in with explanations about why the name was suggested," Banner said. "Some tugged at our heartstrings, while others connected history to the park. It was a difficult decision."

The Legacy Park name stood out because voters in Northville Township approved a 2009 millage to buy the property to preserve and protect the area, "It is a legacy for future township residents, a legacy for our children," Banner said.

To choose the winning name, township officials established a park-naming committee to evaluate the submissions. In addition to Banner, members included: William Sivy, a Northville Township Historic District Commission member; Jamie Grabowski, Northville Township resident; Jeff Oles, a Motor City Mountain Biking Association member; Cyndy Jankowski, treasurer of the Northville Public Schools Board of Education; Fred Shadko, Northville Township treasurer and Mark Gasche, Northville Parks & Recreation director

"Most of the members of the committee were part of the Twenty21 Master Plan for the park and were well aware of why the community bought the property in 2009," Banner explained.

The committee chose their top name choices and then discussed the suggestions until they came to unanimous agreement, a process that took longer than anticipated, reflecting the quality of the submissions, Banner said.

"We are excited to leave Legacy Park of Northville for future generations of township residents to enjoy," she said.

Beautification commission chooses 2020 winners

Members of the Northville Beautification Commission did not let the coronavirus stop them from choosing the award winners in the community this year.

For the 31st consecutive year, local businesses were honored for displays of flowers and plants in the city, adding to the character of the community. This year, members of the commission received flowers and plants for the city efforts on June 2, just after nurseries were allowed to reopen by the governor. The plants were installed in containers and distributed at key sites in the city by commission volunteers who worked as a group, but took recommended safety precautions, working at safe distances and wearing masks. The volunteers worked with services provided by the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) for design and purchasing, and with the Department of Public Works (DPW) for watering and supplies. The dedicated group of 11 volunteers led by Beautification Commission Chairperson Diane Pittaway put in extra effort to revitalize the downtown area with bursts of colors on every block.

> We awarded 32 business and civic organizations.

In addition to the hands-on work of planting and regular weeding, the commissioners decided to proceed with the annual beautification awards and established a judging scheduled and visited area locales to rank the gardens and outdoor spaces in the city.

"We had waited to see how the businesses would recover from the coronavirus shut-down. If you've walked through downtown, you can see that we never should have doubted the resilience of our business community," said Pittaway.

"We awarded 32 business and civic organizations and the city never looked more beautiful."

The coronavirus did force the commission to cancel the annual luncheon hosted by the Northville Rotary Club when the winners would have been recognized. This year, the winners received certificates by mail and signs at the award winning locations.

Winners this year included: 160 Main Restaurant; Adorn Florist; Allen Terrace Senior Housing; Angela Carson Photography; Casterline Funeral Home; Center Street Grille; Corriveau Law; First Presbyterian Church; First United Methodist Church; Garage Grill & Fuel Bar; Gardenviews; Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall; Good Time Party Store; Kelly & Kelly Law; Los Tres Amigos Restaurant; Main-Seven LLC / Cross Fit; Marathon Judeh Corporation; Northville Academy; Northville Car Wash; Northville City Hall; Northville Fraternal Order of Eagles; Northville Garden Club Park; Northville Gardener LLC/ 540 S. Main Shopping Center; Northville Town Square; Our Lady of Victory Church; Poole's Tavern; Red Dot Coffee Company; Stampeddler Plus; The Northville Gallery; Tipping Point Theatre; Tirami Su Ristorante and Yerkes House Garden at Mill Race Village.

project will restore the creek banks, prevent erosion and enhance the waterway for fish. It is our great partnership with the city and ARC that made this project possible."

The park, including the tennis courts, will remain open during construction but the baseball fields and pavilion are closed.

Construction is expected to last through late October pending any weather delays.

"It's an exciting project for Northville Township and its residents, and we are grateful Johnson Creek benefitted from this grant," Gasche said.

Shooting suspect faces first-degree murder charges

Raymond Lee Bailey was arraigned last Wednesday in 34th District Court on four counts of first degree murder and four counts of felony firearm.

Bailey, 37, of Kinross, faces the felony murder charges in connection with four homicides that occurred Aug. 15 in Sumpter Township. Sumpter Township police officers responded to a 911 call at about 12:30 p.m. reporting gunshots at a home in the 24900 block of Martinsville Road. When officers arrived at the home, they discovered four victims, two men and two women, who had apparently died of gunshot wounds.

The deceased were subsequently identified by police as Laura Tanner, 35 and her sister, Sarah Grupa, 38 of Detroit, and brothers, Forrest Sampson, 28 and Neal Sampson, 30, both of Van Buren Township. Prosecutors allege that at the time of the shooting, Laura Tanner was having ongoing problems with Bailey, her former boyfriend.

Bailey allegedly fled the scene, and eventually turned himself into Bay City police at about 10:13 p.m. Aug. 16. His truck had been found abandoned in the area. Sumpter officers traveled to Bay City and transported Bailey back to the township where he remained in custody until his arraignment on the charges.

"The allegations in this case are the quintessential example of domestic victimology," commented Wayne County Prosecutor Kym Worthy. "As a result, four people are now tragically deceased. We clearly understand the social psychology of the domestic violence victim and we strive mightily to support them. So please, if you are a victim of domestic violence, help is available. Call the First Step 24 Hour domestic violence hotline at (734) 722-6800," she urged.

Bailey has been charged with four counts of first degree murder and four counts of felony firearm. Bail was denied by the court during Bailey's hospital arraignment.

His next court date is Sept. 2.

A GoFundMe account has been established by friends and family members to help with the funeral expenses for the four victims. Last week, more than $36,000 had been pledged.

Anyone with information regarding the incident is asked to contact the Sumpter Township Police Department detective bureau at (734) 461-4833, option 4.

Romulus Movies in the Park set in old-fashioned drive-in venue

The City of Romulus has gone back to the future with the showing of the annual summer Movies in the Park in an old-fashioned drive-in style venue.

The drive-in movies are an effort to protect the community amid the COVID-19 pandemic and still provide the evening movies which have become a tradition in the city. The films will be shown beginning at dusk on the last Fridays in August and September in a field on Olive Street between Grant and Bibbins streets.

The movie for Friday, Aug. 28 will be Trolls World Tour while the film for Friday, Sept. 25 has not yet been announced, city officials said.

The first drive-in style "Movies in the Park" took place July 31 when the city showed Sonic the Hedgehog. Romulus partnered with Colorful Events, a local small business, to provide the nearly 25 car loads of participants with pre-movie bingo and other activities.

"Movies in the Park has been a beloved summer activity the Romulus community for the last few years," said Mayor LeRoy Burcroff. "I'm grateful for my team for their quick thinking and innovative approach to provide the community a twist on this favorite summer classic-at a safe distance."

Upon arrival, moviegoers will be assigned a socially-distanced parking space on a first come, first-served basis. Guests will be required to stay in their vehicles or within their designated parking spaces, except when using the restroom. When exiting vehicles to use the restroom, guests are required to wear a mask. Concessions are not available, but attendees are welcome to bring their own snacks.

Beginning Friday, Aug. 28, the public will be invited to help choose the last movie of the season via a poll on the city Facebook page.

For more information about Movies in the Park, call the Parks & Recreation Department at (734) 941-8665.

Business to Business workshop goes to virtual format

The City of Romulus launched a virtual Business-to-Business Networking Series last week in an effort to promote economic development and provide support for local businesses during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Representatives from Wayne County, the Michigan Economic Development Corporation and Detroit Regional Aerotropolis joined the conversation to provide updates on grants and other available business resources.

"I see the city of Romulus as a business-friendly municipality, and I think the future looks good for businesses in Romulus," said Wayne County District 11 Commissioner Al Haidous during the meeting. "The city of Romulus is a hotspot for economic development."

While city officials have previously hosted Business-to-Business Networking events in-person, COVID-19 restrictions meant the city needed to pivot to identify a virtual option. The event allowed city officials to connect with local businesses, share resources, answer questions and receive feedback at a safe social distance.

"Our role as city officials is to support and connect local businesses with the people, programs and resources they need to be successful," said Romulus Mayor LeRoy Burcroff. "This series will help us learn what is working for businesses and what is not. We're in a different world since the onset of COVID-19, but I continue to be proud of the innovative ways our community has adapted and come together to support small businesses."

Romulus officials are in the process of organizing additional virtual Business-to-Business networking events to keep the conversation going.

"We organized the series as a way to connect local businesses with all the resources and tools available to them," said Jazmine Danci, director of Marketing and Community Development for Romulus. "Today's networking event provided local business owners a direct line to key city departments and community partners, as well as an understanding of how they can access available resources."

Westland rededicates park to honor civic leader

City of Westland officials celebrated the official re-dedication of the Virgil Gagnon Jaycee Park last week.

Mr. Gagnon and his family are among the earliest civic leaders in Westland, officials said and he and his wife, Harriet, were very active in the community with the PTA, Scouting, and many other civic organizations. In 1946, The Gagnons opened the Hamburger House on Michigan Avenue and in the 1950s they opened the Gagnon & Son's Gulf Gas Station at the corner of Wayne and Warren roads. In 1962, the couple organized the Nankin Township Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Gagnon was appointed as a Nankin Township trustee in 1964 and served as secretary of the Nankin Township Charter Commission, working alongside eight other commissioners to write the Westland City Charter.

Gagnon was elected to the Westland City Council in 1966 and served as the first council president. He was appointed as Westland City Clerk in 1970 and where he served for four years.

Prior to his retirement in 1974, Mayor Eugene McKinney and the Westland City Council proclaimed Dec. 17, 1973 as Virgil Gagnon Day.

"Virgil Gagnon worked tirelessly on behalf of the community and his work on the City of Westland city charter helped to make our city what it is today," stated Mayor William R. Wild.

"It is an honor to host this re-dedication ceremony for a true public servant of the origination of our beloved city."

Upgrades to Wayne Atwood Park playscape are delayed

Wayne officials are promising that the upgrades to Atwood Park will be worth the long wait.

Despite an official announcement earlier this year that the park would see a new play structure in early spring or summer, no work has been done at the site, prompting questions from several residents in the area. In a response on the city Facebook page, officials said COVID-19 "created some significant delays with this project."

> We understand that the current playscape is unsightly and in deplorable shape. The city is doing its best to maintain it until it is demolished and replaced.

The play structure removal and new installation is being funding using a grant from Wayne County which includes strict guidelines regarding the process, officials said.

"In order to follow the grant guidelines, the city and the county have to go through a formal bid process. Once a bid is accepted, the city and county will work with the selected contractor to schedule the project timeline," officials said.

Several projects were delayed this year due to the social distancing requirements and many of the executive orders put in place regarding construction. Therefore, the project has been delayed until recently, the statement continued.

Representatives from Wayne and Wayne County will show the property to interested contractors who specialize in playscape buildouts this month, as a mandatory walk-through is part of the bidding process. Wayne County has issued bid requests for the project and those are due by the end of the month. When those bids are received, representatives from the city will work with the county to select a contractor for the project.

A timeline and construction schedule will be determined working with the contractor and the city, representatives said. "It is still the city's goal to have this completed in 2020," according to the statement.

Workers from the Wayne Department of Public Works have removed all of the spindles around the fence line in preparation for the demolition of the current structure. The upper and lower portions of the fence will be removed in the very near future, officials said.

The spindles have names of individuals, families and organizations who supported the Atwood Playscape when it was erected and those spindles are available at the Department of Public Works. Anyone who wants to acquire a spindle(s), should contact the DPW and make the necessary arrangements.

A contractor will be at the park site to remove some trees which is necessary for the installation of the new playscape. Some other trees may also be removed if they are or will be hanging over the play structure area, officials said.

"We understand that the current playscape is unsightly and in deplorable shape. The city is doing its best to maintain it until it is demolished and replaced. Please be patient with us as we work hard to get this project on track. The new playscape is going to be beautiful," the statement concluded.

Photography exhibit continues

His award-winning style of photography has been displayed throughout Southeast Michigan. The exhibit is free and open during regular hours at Westland City Hall.

Inkster - Romulus

Police investigate 2 shooting deaths in Inkster

Two incidents of gun violence resulting in deaths remain under investigation by police in the City of Inkster.

The most recent incident took place last Friday night when a 14-year-old died after he was shot in the head, apparently by another teen.

Inkster police and Michigan State Police responded to the incident at about 10:35 p.m. Aug. 21 at Dearborn View Apartments where they discovered the body of the teen, dead from an apparent gunshot wound.

Emergency responded transported the victim to a local hospital where he was pronounced dead.

A preliminary investigation and witness statements indicated that a group of young teens were in the apartment and at some point during the evening, one of them displayed a handgun.

Witnesses told police that another 14-year-old shot and killed the victim. Police took that teen into custody, according to reports of the incident but no other information is being released due to the age of the victim and the suspect in the incident.

Police said the investigation into the death is ongoing.

In a separate incident, police said two men in ski masks opened fire in the middle of an Inkster neighborhood last Tuesday, killing one person and injuring another. The shots were fired in a garden area between Hickory and Spruce streets in the evening hours while families were outside, sending everyone running for cover, police said.

The gunmen fled the scene on foot, witnesses told police.

"This is not something we're going to tolerate," Inkster Assistant Police Chief Bill Ratliff said, noting that the investigation into the incident is ongoing.

Annual Romulus Pumpkin Festival is cancelled for 2020

The Romulus Pumpkin Festival has, like so many other community events throughout the country, been cancelled for 2020.

A statement from the city noted that the cancellation was, "In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, and at the recommendation of the Pumpkin Festival Planning Committee and the Romulus Rotary Club."

Officials said that the decision to cancel the festival and the annual Parade of Lights which traditionally begins the event, was made after careful consideration of all options.

Virtual fall events are still in the planning process and include a sunflower growing contest, pumpkin growing contest, fall harvest porch decorating contest, fall-themed cutest pet and cutest baby contests and Romulus Arts Council fall art contest.

"Our goal is to be creative and organize events for the community throughout the fall season while continuing to protect our residents by following Governor (Gretchen) Whitmer's guidelines and CDC recommendations," said Romulus Mayor LeRoy Burcroff. "While we are saddened to cancel our favorite in-person fall event, we look forward to debuting alternative virtual events for our residents."

> Our goal is to be creative and organize events for the community throughout the fall season while continuing to protect our residents.

For more information about the upcoming virtual contests and events, call the Community Development Office at (734) 942-7545 or follow the City of Romulus or Downtown Romulus, Michigan Facebook pages.

"As always, be well, look out for your neighbors and stay Romulus strong." Burcroff said.

Lawsuit claims racial discrimination at truck trailer plant

Three former employees at a Romulus truck trailer company claim they faced racist treatment while working at the business, including a display of nooses.

Three African-American men have sued Benlee, Inc., claiming in court filings that a noose was hung at the company twice while they worked there as part of a series of racial incidents aimed at intimidating them.

Jermaine Ware, a Detroit resident, filed his lawsuit In March in Wayne County Circuit Court. Last week, Marcus Gray of Westland and JaJuan Jones of Detroit, also filed lawsuits, alleging they were called the N-word and "boy" while working at Benlee Inc. In their court filings, Gray and Jones also allege white co-workers threatened them and other African American workers saying they were going to "hand them" while in full view of a 13-coil "hangman's noose," visibly displayed on company premises.

> The economy has slowed, but hate and injustice is at an all-time high.

Gray's legal filing alleges that a white co-worker tried to put a wire around his neck and threatened to hang him.

Jones' suit also alleges he saw the hangman's noose in the workplace and was verbally threatened by a white co-worker. Both claim that co-workers claimed to be members of the Ku Klux Klan and that they would play racist songs including "Pick a Bale o'Cotton" in an attempt to intimidate the Black workers.

Gray worked at the company from July 2018 until October 2019, when he was laid off, while Jones worked there from May 2019 to July 2019, according to the suit. The complaint alleges Jones missed work frequently because of emotional distress and was subsequently fired.

Detroit attorney Jonathan Marko, who is representing Gray and Jones, said, "racist incidents everywhere seem to be exploding. The economy has slowed, but hate and injustice is at an all-time high." He said he expects more workers may come forward with similar allegations of racist treatment and incidents.

The lawsuit quotes Benlee officials as saying "the noose was not used to create a racially hostile work environment but only used as a handle to raise and lower one of the inoperable sliding garage doors in the shop area, until repair."
